MURDERER DIES FROM SELF-INFLICTED WOUNDS

William H. Kuen, who shot and killed his wife Beulah, shot his sister-in-law, Miss Gertrude Richards and then fired two bullet into his own breast in Pittsburgh on the evening of May 19, died at the Mercy hospital, at 8:15 o'clock last night.

At the time of the shooting, Kuen was not thought to be dangerously wounded, and his recovery was looked for after the first day in the hospital. However, his condition took a turn for the worse yesterday morning and despite the efforts of attending physicians his death occurred last night.

It is not generally known whether he made a statement while in the hospital, but he did admit being responsible for the death of his wife, and his death last night probably saved him from the electric chair. Miss Richards who was shot in the head by the enraged husband, has fully recovered from her injuries.

The shooting was the result of domestic troubles that began shortly after the couple wer married. Kuen came here from Barning, N. Y. about eight years ago to work as a telegraph operator for the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad. He was married to Miss Beulah Richards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Richards seven years ago and left shortly afterwards to take a position as station agent at South Heights. When he lost this position he returned here and worked for a short time in a local grocery store. Until a few weeks before he committed the crime he was employed as yardmaster at the thirty-fourth street yards of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad at Pittsburgh.

Little is known of his relatives other than his mother is residing in New York City and he also has several brothers, but their whereabouts are unknown.

To Meet In High School Auditorium

Monessen Distrist Sunday schools will hold their annual convention in the new High school auditirium, Sunday afternoon and evening, June 6, 1915. Sessions to start promptly at 2:30 and 7:45. The Sunday schools haveing been endorsed by the pastors of the District, are making every effort that this shall be the very best convention. Speakers for theafternoon are Mrs. Mary L. Stewart, Washington county Field Worker of Washington, Pa. and Dr. S. Harper Smith of McKeesport, Pa. For the evening Dr. Homer M. Cook from Oakland Baptist church, Pittsburgh, and Mr. John C. Silsley of Greensburg, will speak. The A. M. E. choir and M. E. S. S. orchestra will lead the song service. All pulpits will be closed for that evening, giving the Sunday schools and congregations an opportunity to join in this convention.

Constable Must Pay For Horse

Thursday evening a suit in which Monessen parties are interested, was placed on trial before Judge Charles D. Copeland and yesterday morning a number of witnesses were present and testified. Wysal Trojanowski, represented by Attorneys Bell & Bell, is the plaintiff and Constable A. J. Smith represented by Attorneys Robbins & Wyant, is the defendant.

The trouble in this case came about several months ago when, as the plaintiff states, the constable sold a horse claimed to be the property of Theodore Sterniack. "Teddy" in some way has been indebted to J. E. Cook who had the horse sold by the constable. The officer went ahead on a warrant issued by Squire J. A. Watkins and made the sale. Trojanowski then appeared as the real owner of the "nag" and thus the suit was started.

Despite the fact tha horsemen who were called to testify stated that the animal was a "wind-sucker," had "two jacks" or spavins on its hind legs and stalled at one time pulling a buggy and was only worth about $50.00 in Chinese money or 50 cents in United States legal tender, the jury brought in a verdict yesterday afternoon against the constable for $125.

MONESSEN WILL HELP SUFFERING BELGIANS

One thousand men representing Pittsburgh and the adjacent boroughs and towns sat down to the banquet table in the Kaufman restaurant last night as guests of Mayor Armstrong. The delegations outside of the city were composed of burgesses, bankers, newspapermen and others prominent in the affairs of life.

The banquet was held under the auspices of the Western Pennsylvania Committee of the Commission for the relief in Belgium and was for the purpose of spreading sentiment in the interest of the starving millions now in Belgium as a result of the awful European war.

The Monongahela valley towns were well represented, a delegation from Monessen in the personage of Burgess A G, Dunlap, L. X Ely, H. R. Pore and J. Howard Kelly being present.

The banquet was served at 6:30 p. m., after which J. Leonard Levy, the toastmaster, made a talk in explanation of the movement that called together so many people, nearly a million being represented. He made an eloquent appeal for starving Belgium and introduced Mayor Armstrong of Pittsburgh. William Flinn made a lengthy explanation as to how he became interested in the movement and how vast the work is being carried on. Dr. Howard McClenahan of Princeton University, spoke of his personal experiences in Belguim.

At the conclusion of the speaking Dr. Levy called for pledges from Pittsburgh and the surrounding towns to the amount to signify flour at $2.00 per sack. Among the number A. G. Dunlap was called upon and he pledged Monessen to deliver 500 sacks when called upon. Charleroi pledged 750 sacks.

Along with Pittsburgh every town is expected to organize and get to work in order to raise a ship load of provisions from this district. There are seven million people now at the point of starvation in Belgium. A sack of flour will keep a family alive for a month. Every person who can afford it is to be asked to donate a sack of flour at $2.00, and in this way the work is to be carried forward by a house to house canvass throughout the city of Pittsburgh and throughout the entire Pittsburgh district. Burgess Dunlap will head an organization for Monessen and will ask for contributions.

Races Postponed Until Next Monday

On account of weather conditions the 500 mile automobile race, which was to have been held at the Indianapolis speedway tomorrow, was postponed today until Monday.

Weather conditions for almost a week have been unfavorable for the big race and when the weather bureau announced more rain for today and "partly cloudy" for tomorrow, it was decided to postpone the contest until Monday. It is believed that since Monday in most places has been declared a holiday on acount of Memorial day coming on Snuday, there will be a larger crowd Monday than would have attended today.

The hotels are already filled to capacity with speed enthusiasts and each ariving train is bringing more visitors into the city in addition to the hundreds who are arriving in automobiles. The recent heavy rains and muddy conditions of the roads seemingly have not deterred many from making the trip overland.

Part of the local delegation including John Kilroy, Pierce Johnson, A. J. Knight, Miller Houseman and C. S. Reagan left before the postponement was announced. Alex Board and Charles Shutterly got as far as Pittsburgh, but returned late last night. Others who intended to give up the trip this year, while some new ones will probably make the trip leaving here tomorrow.

Town Is Enjoying Healthy Season

At a meeting of the Board of Health last evening, but seven cases of contagious diseases were reported during the month. This is by far the smallest number reported for several years and is quite a contrast over the report for same month two years ago when 300 cases were listed.

Health conditions throughout the town have been greatly improved and the citizens and health officers are working in better harmony than ever before. Several persons were found burning rubbish early in the morning while others used the waste cans about town in which to dump their rubbish. They were soon found out and charges brought against them for the infraction of the law.

ODD BITS OF NEWS

Gulfport, Miss.—John Keating of this place, died the other day and his obituary was published. A barber was called in to shave the corpse. As the razor passed over the man's cheek, his eyes opened, his lips parted and he said "Don't cut me, kid." The barber dived through the window and is somewhere in Oklahoma at this time. Keating is alive and well.

INVERTED REFLEX TRADE MARK LIGHT

The very latest development in Gas Lighting

Increased Efficiency of 50 per cent over the ordinary inverted Gas Burner. Gives 80 candle-power, same as the larger Gas Burners. Handsome in appearance. Sheffield design. Dainty in size. 7 inches in length. Consumes one-third the amount of gas. One-third the heat from the burning lamp. One-third the breakage of Glassware. Two-times stronger Mantle (this is due to its being smaller and more rigid). Absolutely will not tarnish. Can be supplied in any finish. Like all Gas Lights under the name, "Reflex," it carries the same guarantee of satisfaction. This burner represents the finished product of numerous experiments covering three years in the laboratories of the Original Welsbach Company, the oldest and largest manufacturers of the most efficient Gas Appliances in the world. Their great aim is to eliminate the present objections to the average gas burner, viz: too much gas consumption, heat, breakage of mantles and glassware, tarnishing of burner and fixtures, and deterioration in candle power.

It is worthy of the consideration of the gas consumers who desire to reduce lighting trouble and improve their lighting conditions.

CHAT ON SUFFRAGE WITH AVERAGE MAN

The following is the first installment of a series of articles by Florence Goff Schwarz, State manager of the Pennsylvania Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

By Florence Goff Schwarz.

How do you do, Mr. Average Man, you're just the person I've been wanting to meet. Take that easy chair and let's have a real heart to heart talk on this "votes for women" question. It is a puzzling question to you, isn't it? and you don't know just how to answer it; maybe I can help you. You may smoke if you wish; a man is never more receptive than when he's being considered, which isn't often in these days—goodness knows—with masculine stock marked zero and feminine stock soaring sky high.

You belong to a pretty good sex at that, even though some women do call you "oppressor, brute and rascal." I take it you're a married man; well then you've kept a roof over one woman's head, you've given her your pay envelope unopened and she has handed you back lunch money and carfare and you were willing to do it because it was for her and the kiddies. I know, for the average man does just that very thing.

But what surprises me is, that, when you've built up for yourself a pretty good reputation regarding your treatment of women, how you can be so patient under the accusations of some of them who claim that you've made a muddle of politics—such a mess of this nation's affairs that they are actually compelled to step into your shoes and relegate you hereafter to moccasins of the softest variety. Have you lost your grip? why don't you bat some of these verbal bouquets back at those who hurl them?

Since you're a married man, probably you know something about home nagging. Well, then close your eyes a moment and try to imagine what national nagging would be like. Ask some of the legislators — THEY KNOW.

Perhaps your children have told you how you ought to run your affairs. You knew they were presumptuous, didn't you? Well, that's exactly what the suffragettes are aiming at, they think they can manage the nation when they haven't had a bit of experience and don't know a blessed thing about it.

Why do I call them suffragettes? Because Webster says a suffragette is a person who is seeking a vote and a suffragist is one who has captured it. These vote-seeking women call themselves suffragists, but I think Dan Webster is pretty reliable authority, don't you?

If you are a business man you know it takes specialization to manage even the smallest concern, it also takes concentration. Managing the nation is the biggest contract ever attempted by man, and notwithstanding the depreciation of the suffragists, he has made a pretty good job of it after all, for it's the greatest nation on the globe today; also, if we omit the fuss some women are making, it's the most peaceable. Supposing there had been a feminine chief at the head of affairs in President Wilson's shoes when the Lusitania went down? Don't let's think about what would have happened.

Your forefathers specialized upon the gigantic work of running this country and wrote the result into the constitution; then they left it to YOU, Mr. Average Man, to carry out the specifications therein. If you've really made a muddle of this inheritance it's strictly up to YOU to straighten out matters, not to shame your manhood by permitting women to jump across to your line of duty; it's not their affair; those who left you this legacy did not expect it of them. The business of being a mother is another mighty big contract, and don't forget it is quite as important, even more so, than your share of the world's work. Why, if every woman specialized upon that one job, if she worked faithfully along spiritual as well as hygienic lines, if she forgot microbes and fashions (that's another deadly germ) and got after the morality of her children, the juvenile courts would soon be out of business and the jail would have only old-age tenants.

If the suffragettes were to put as much energy into mothering children and as much money as they expend in trying to be voters, why, bless you, there wouldn't be a child uncared for or an orphan asylum in the country. The fact of the matter is that a lot of women want to mother the nation because they've outgrown the idea of mothering anything else.

Do you think Illinois would be clamoring for Billy Sunday if every mother in that state was on her knees and on her job instead of in the political game? How about Colorado, where they had to send across the continent to Boston for an evangelist to help purify the state? Twenty-two years of politics had made mothers too busy to think about preparing souls for heaven. It wasn't that way with your mother and mine, Mr. Average Man. Yet the suffragists call them parasites—sounds like a bug, doesn't it? Any way, I'd rather be a parasite than a PARACHUTE? God made the first woman from a rib, but some of her daughters have spread amazingly, they've added several more ribs and a silk cover and a handle, and they now think they've got the only key to the combination which will open the door of evil and law it out of the country.

What made this nation what it is today, Mr. Average Man? Team work—splendid TEAM WORK; our forefathers specialized on their share and our foremothers spiritualized on theirs and neither got out of the running track. For many years they had nothing to go by but the ten commandments and the Golden Rule. They knew nothing of sex hygiene or white slavery, but when anything violated their morality they didn't cry "evolve;" they thundered "STOP!"

"Suffragettes claim they represent progress and evolution," you say.

"Better light your pipe again, for I'm going to take you a long journey, all the way from Pennsylvania to the Garden of Eden, some distance, isn't it? but that's where you'll find the first suffragette. Her name was Eve. She wasn't a parachute—she was only one rib, but she worked a lot of mischief. The serpent, which the Bible says was more subtle than any beast, proved his craftiness when he approached her instead of Adam, he played both upon her curiosity and her ambition. "Eat of the tree of Wisdom and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil."

Where was Adam when the serpent came around? Eve was given into his keeping, and he should have protected her, saved her from herself, from temptation and the germ of feminine unrest and curiosity.

We know not where Adam was, but at any rate he ambled up in time to get the core of the apple—I say "core" advisedly. When Eve handed it to him why didn't he obey God's orders? He knew he was doing wrong, but he loved the woman and of course was chivalrous. Just because she asked him, probably preached to him from a tree (there were no soap boxes in those days) he ate it most likely, seeds and all, and—lost Eden.

There you have it in a nutshell, Mr. Average Man. The Eden scene is being re-enacted today; the stage setting is up to date, but the characters and instincts are as old as creation. The apple of political knowledge has been bitten into by some of Eve's daughters; God and man has given her everything else, yet she is not satisfied. But YOU, Mr. Average Man, are not in the same position as Adam. He was alone with Eve the temptress, and the serpent, it was two to one. The apple of discord is proffered you by 2 7 of the women of America, while at your back stands a little less than 8-10ths who refuse to surrender the Eden of feminine exemption to the ballot; who stick to the home like a tack to a steel magnet, who feel the sublime importance of motherhood and who still retain their faith in the ability of mankind to manage the nation, basing their conclusions on precedent and facts rather than on promises and theories. Think it over, Mr. Average Man. DON'T BE ANOTHER ADAM; this progressive age has produced a type of feminists "Whose grievance is satiety of ease; freedom her pain and plenty her disease."

Now that we've traveled back to the present age, with its dangers and its discords, let me give you a few more words of warning. Don't drape your masculinity in a skirt; don't permit yourself to be tied to the apron strings of feminine rulers. Shall the old time manhood be slaughtered to make a suffrage holiday?

Throw your hat in the ring, Mr. Average Man; assert your divine prerogatives. Let the world know that you can manage your end of its affairs, and without feminine assistance. Revive the days when knighthood was in flower. Regain your lost prestige. Don't be afraid of a handful of women who are trying to take it from you Tear off the yellow scarfs of those you have sworn to protect, by your life if necessary, from their own follies if needs be. Turn back your coat lapel and show your badge of a national officer, with the stamp upon it which your forefathers wrote in letters of blood. Compel these modern Eves to return to the nobie, spiritual and educational task of mothering before a crop of modern Cains shall arise to reproach them.

Your pipe has gone out, Mr. Average Man, but a light dawns in your eyes which sets my heart aglow. Thank heaven, America still breeds men.

Special Services At U. B. Church

Tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock Mr. Bert Taylor will open a series of special evangelisitic meetings at the U. B. church on Reed avenue. These services will last at least two weeks, commencing each evening promptly at eight o'clock. They will be conducted by Mr. Taylor, assisted by Mr. H. L. Rush of Dawson, Pa. Mr. Taylor is well known in Monessen, having conducted one of the most successful evangelistic meetings ever held in Monessen in the Methodist church some three years ago. Mr. Taylor is a mill man and a man of exceptional ability. His pleasing personality and beautiful Christian character have won for him a host of friends in and about Monessen. He has just returned from several months spent with the Hamilton party and his experience, backed up by one of the best voices which was ever dedicated to Christ's work, has made Mr. Taylor a powerful weapon in the hands of God with which to combat sin.

His assistant, Mr. Rush, has had a year of special training as an evangelistic singer in the Moody Institute in Chicago and needs no introduction as he has already been heard in Monessen, having sung here at the rally of the Young People's Christian Endeavor society held this spring. A cordial invitation is extended to all to come and enjoy these meetings.

HON. EDWARD E. ROBBINS

Hon. Edward E. Robbins of Greensburg, who has consented to be the orator of the day for the Memorial exercises here Monday, is one of the most widely known men in Westmoreland county. Mr. Robbins has served in Congress and the Senate, and was a soldier in the Spanish-American war. He resigned his seat in Congress to enlist to defend his country. He is a patriot, a historian, a protectionist and a true American. He has been here on former occasions to speak at Board of Trade banquets, but this will be his first appearance to speak to the masses of our citizens on such a patriotic occasion. The committee in charge of the arrangements has planned a good program and the town generally should turn out and help an occasion of this kind. Col. Robbins' oration will be delivered from the band stand in the Sixth street park at 2 p. m.

Funeral Souvenirs.

Weird funeral souvenirs of Dutch origin were called "deed-koecks," or "dead cakes." With a small bottle of wine and a pair of gloves two of these were sent by way of invitation to relatives and friends whom one wanted to attend the funeral. The original recipe for these cakes, which is said to be authentic, called for fourteen pounds of flour, six pounds of sugar, five pounds of butter, one quart of water, two teaspoonfuls of pearl ash, two teaspoonfuls of salt and one ounce of caraway seed. These were baked in four inch squares, then frosted and marked with the initials of the "departed friend." Sometimes they were eaten at the funeral dinner, but usually they were taken away, like wedding cakes, as souvenirs. Many bakers made a specialty of "funeral cookery," one baker in Philadelphia advertising the specialty as recently as 1748.—New York Tribune.

Real Joy of Farm Owning.

I am not a gentleman farmer, with a great estate over which I ride once in awhile and leave all the real work to my underlings. I cannot think there would be great fun in that. No; I like to take hold with my Portuguese man and plant and spray and trim and prune. To be sure, he does more than his share of the rough work, and much of the year I must be cultivating other kinds of fields than those that grow cabbages and turnips, but the fun of farming comes from being a real farmer while you are one, getting close to the soil, becoming intimate with every living thing, whether it be a plant or animal, loving your tomato vines and raspberry bushes, taking a real pride in your cauliflower and your brussels sprouts, whether you get a prize for them at the county fair or not.—Rev. Dr. Francis P. Clark in Countryside Magazine and Suburban Life.
